

We love hearing about your experiences. Reviews are a great way to share both positive and negative feedback to the community. All reviews and recommendations should be helpful and trustworthy. Please make sure that reviews you leave about a venue you've visited, are honest representations of the customer experience. To get your review published as quickly as possible, please ensure the following:

Keep it Classy (San Diego)

Don't worry we won't be marking you on spelling or grammar. However, we do request that all reviews are kept squeaky clean. Please don't use any obscene, profane or offensive language. We will reject reviews that include sexually explicit comments, hate speech, prejudiced language, threats or personal insults.

Play Fair

This is a level playing field and all reviews written should be impartial. The most helpful reviews come from an unbiased perspective. Individuals or businesses who own or are affiliated with a venue are not permitted to publish reviews about their own venue or any competing establishments.

Stay Focused

People reading your review want to gain an understanding of what they should expect when they visit a venue. Therefore, reviews should be relevant to your experience at said venue. Please don't include personally insulting language or any opinions about politics, ethics, religion or wider social debates. Clipp does not allow reviews that promote judgement based on a person's race, gender, religion, sexual preference or nationality. Remember, you are here to review a venue, pure and simple!

Chinese Whispers

We want something original and accurate so make sure it's your advice! Your fellow Clippsters aren't interested in hearing what Matt told Steff he overheard Allan's aunt telling Pete's cat. Reviews should be original content. We don't want an extract of Shakespeare or any extensively quoted material. Any review deemed to be plagiarised will be removed.

Non-commercial

Reviews act as a great form of advice for other Clippsters but keep it relevant. People are not reading them to learn how many more patents Dyson has put on its latest vacuum. This isn't a place for any commercial or promotional content, so to help prevent advertising, we won't accept any reviews that include URLs, email addresses or phone numbers.

Private Information

Please respect your privacy and the privacy of the venues we list. We do not need to know any personal or exclusive information and we would not advise sharing any passwords or security codes. Any reviews containing personal financial information, including credit card numbers, loyalty rewards' numbers or other financial information will also be removed. We allow only first names to be published to our site.

Clipp reserves the right to refuse to publish a review at any time and for any reason. The opinions expressed in reviews are those of Clipp members and not of Clipp Pty Ltd. We do not endorse the opinions expressed by reviewers.